The Periodic report of the Southern Observatory for Human Rights (SOHR) for July 2011

In performance of its tasks, the Southern Observatory for Human Rights (SOHR) issues its periodic report of July 2011, including a number of violations committed against the people of the south and their fundamental freedoms, documenting them to be added to the records of violations of the Yemeni authorities committed against the people and the land the south since the invasion in 1994.

The Southern Observatory for Human Rights expresses its deep concern at the increasing deterioration in security and living conditions in the south, and holds the Yemeni regime responsible for what could be practiced against the citizens' rights and fundamental freedoms as a result of such deteriorating conditions.

July was marked by a mixture of human rights violations and security vacuum, in addition to the usual violations against many activists of detention, torture and suppression of peaceful marches, the authorities worked on creating a suspicious security vacuum, interposed by several armed incidents which claimed the lives of a number of citizens, as well as creating fear and concern among people for their lives and the lives of their families and their properties.

The south during the month of July witnessed more of the gross violations of human rights, most were and still suffered by citizens in the cities of Zanzibar and Jaar through the armed conflict taking place on their territory, as well as what is suffered in the city of Habilityn of armed attacks by the Yemeni army forces, where these forces continue displacing thousands of families for search of safety. The rest of them strayed vulnerable to bombardment, whether through field weapons or air raids, in addition to the lack the most basic necessities of life of foodstuffs and electric, fuel and water services.

The security situation has not just been shaken in these cities, but there have been some signs of that precariousness in several other southern cities including the cities of Aden Province. These calling-for-concern situations have created the fear in the hearts of people for their lives. The scene shows the presence of a puzzling security vacuum, free of the presence of the security bodies, with the presence of armed elements roam the streets of the cities from time to time.

This situation led the people to carry weapons fearing for themselves from possible dangers maybe cased as a result of these unrestrained situations, as no one can control that security vacuum, in particular the phenomenon of carrying weapons and firing live ammunition without justification by anyone at any place and time.

Created with

These situations warn of a coming danger if not remedied, and there are no indications of attempts to correct such security imbalances, this confirms that the military and security authorities are behind such situations, and even working on increasing them.

The Southern Observatory for Human Rights (SOHR) warns of the consequences of the persistence of the policies of the military and security authorities of the Yemeni regime, and he holds them responsible for those imbalances of security which may occur due to continuing their methods. The fact that this will make the people's lives at risk and their rights and fundamental freedoms vulnerable to abuse.

Thus, the Southern Observatory for Human Rights in July was able to monitor and document 44 cases of extrajudicial killings and 67 cases of attempted murder that led to injuries and 57 arrests.

All of these violations are still a witness to the repressive policies of the Yemeni regime against the people of the south, which will find their way to the international organizations concerned with the protection of human rights, for they are serious violations do not have time limitation in front of judiciary, whether the domestic or international judiciary.

Killing and injuring outside the scope of judiciary:

In uncovered justifications for the regime's forces, it has been noticed lately that these forces act to cover their crimes against the activists of the Southern Movement whom are accused of being members of the alleged Qaeda. Under this claim, crimes of killing, injuring and arrests of many of the Southern Movement activists and other citizens were committed.

The activist Ahmed Rabizi reported through the mother of the victim Albakhshi the findings of her son's death as follows:

"Her young son went out at about 9:00 P.M. on Friday with neighbors in their minibus looking for the diesel oil derivative for the minibus of the neighbor, and confirmed that her son was not fundamentalist or extremists and said that the murderers of her son are known and are not anonymous, asking the Criminal Investigation to arrest who killed her son to be punished, but they did not do anything despite the killers of her son are not unknown, everyone knows that the murder of her son was committed by members of the 31st Armored Brigade whose shift was that day; July 2, 2011, and added that when she felt despair for lack of access to justice and the impossibility to find justice, she decided to organize the funeral of her son Nafiea Mohammed Albakhshi and announced in the press that she intends to bury her son on the afternoon of Friday July 15, 2011, but she was shocked when they told her that her son was recorded in a status report of death as a terrorist killed by the army, which is contrary to reality, but it is a malicious accusation, deformation and defamation to him and his family by such charges, and said that the CID asked her to take the body of her son labeled to this. She stated to us (in tears) that security officials had threatened her, in the case of her refusal to recognize her son's body, that they will arrest her eldest son (brother of the deceased), but insisted on not taking the body of her son and called all the human rights organizations to stand and support her and said grieving that her son was killed on the backgrounds of his field activities in the peaceful struggle and they wanted to blow up the minibus he was in when they fired at the fuel tank which did not burn because the minibus is operated by diesel not petroleum.

She confirmed that the wounded have left the hospital without adequate treatment for fear of arrest by the security forces, especially after the arrests had been launched against who tried to aid the injured in the incident.
